With sincere appreciation, the senior class dedicates the 1968 Green & White to its advisor

Miss Eileen Borges

"Consider that I laboured not for myself only, but for all them that seek learning."
Apocrypha

A good teacher's sphere of influence is endless. She transforms test grades into living, breathing individuals with feelings and emotions. She encourages an appreciation and an understanding of her subject matter within her students. These are admirable, exemplary qualities. But there is an indefinable quality that distinguishes a good teacher from an outstanding teacher — one whose memory remains beyond graduation day.

What is this nebulous quality? Perhaps it is making paper flowers to decorate the prom until 1:00 in the morning, shaking 180 hands at the Ring Dance, making posters for the Senior play, or arranging seating plans for the Senior Banquet. Rapport with students is essential but "our special teacher" is able to communicate her concern for each individual for she gives of herself. Rarely has a class been able to identify so strongly with a teacher.

It is impossible to forget the teacher who has forged through the educational labyrinth with us toward commencement. Many of us have known this teacher since her first student teaching days. We have experienced together the joys and the responsibilities that the junior year offered and we rejoiced that she again would continue to guide our senior year. As senior class advisor, she has persevered to make our class activities the most memorable that Bristol High School has known . . . our Junior Prom dragon reigned supreme at the Bristol Fourth of July parade and at the Swansea Tricentennial parade. When our enthusiasm waned, hers did not. Where we saw endless problems, she perceived the answers.

For her patience and earnest effort in helping the class of 1968, the Green & White Staff dedicates this book to

Miss Eileen Borges.

Emerson advised his fellow-townsmen to manufacture school teachers and make them the best in the world.

To the Class of 1968

My warmest congratulations to you all. May you always treasure fond memories of your years at Bristol High School.

Your school spirit, cooperation and sense of purpose will long serve as a landmark to all of us.

My sincere good wishes go with you in all your future endeavors.

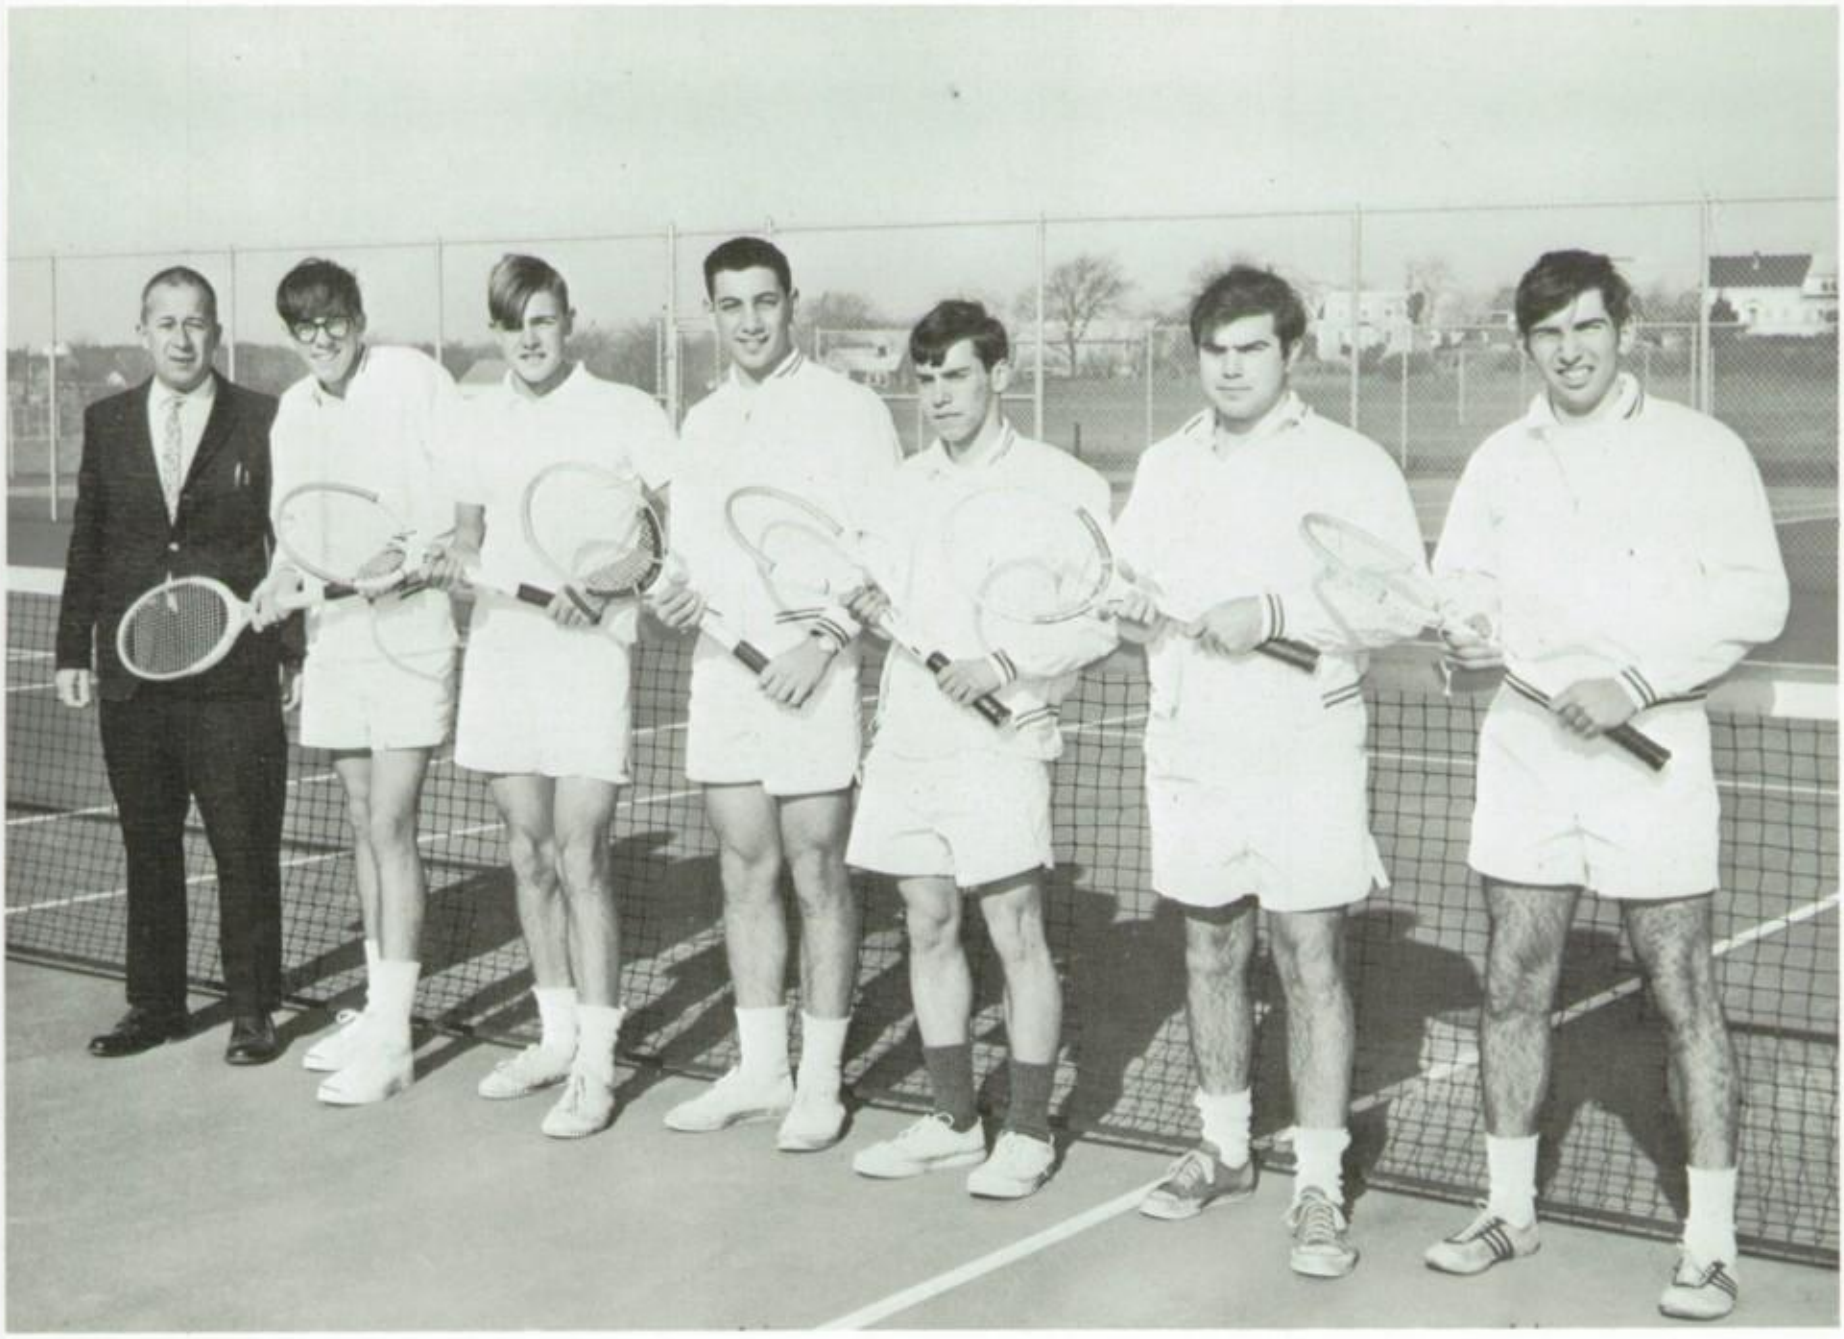
Tennis



head coach: Mr. Partington

seniors: J. Ruggiero, M. Principe

The beginning of the Spring sports season in March of 1967, at the new Bristol High School, saw for the first time the establishment of an official tennis team in the Bristol School System. Competing in the Eastern Division of the three-division R.I. Interscholastic League, we were matched against such tennis powers as De LaSalle and Rogers of Newport, Middletown, Barrington and East Providence. In addition, the team members competed in the Interscholastic League tournament and the LaSalle Doubles tournament. Team members consisted of Senior Carl Tabor, Juniors Matthew Principe and John Ruggiero, Sophomores Steve DaRosa, Gary DuPont, William Ramos, and Richard Moren. Although the final standing was not an impressive one in terms of games won and lost, many of the matches were long and hard fought. The team was hampered in its training through a lack of facilities. It was necessary to be transported daily to the Portsmouth High School courts for practice and these also became our home game courts. However, with the addition of six new beautiful courts at the High School and with the return of all the members of the team excepting one graduated senior, and the added interest of many new potential team members, the team is anxiously looking forward to a winning season.

1967 marked the first year spring track was a varsity sport at Bristol High School. Randy Cowart, Steve Ramos, Frank "Chick" Federico, "Big" Ben Criscuolo, Ray McCarthy, and Vance Cowart shared the spotlight. Although the team did not have a winning year, Randy captured the All Class C High Hurdler and Steve ran away with All Class C Two Miler.

With the efforts of such seasoned players and the enthusiasm of Bristol fans, the 1968 season promises to be a successful one.

Class History

September, 1965, marked our entry into Colt Memorial and the beginning of our most unforgettable high school experiences. We found ourselves confronted with the usual host of embarrassing problems that faced sophomores. In Bristol tradition, we cheered our team on to football victory. But double sessions made it difficult for us to get the most from our high school year. With the advent of spring and the Sophomore Hop — "Toyland" — we were launched on a new course toward class unity.

September, 1966, also stands out in our memories. Following a rather hectic orientation, we were faced with adjusting to the new eight building complex after being accustomed to the cozy atmosphere that "Colt" had provided. Our junior year at Bristol High School filled us with new hopes for adventure and success. An abundance of new opportunities awaited us as we again cheered our teams to championships in football and basketball. As spring drew closer our excitement swelled, climaxing in the Junior Prom. "Oriental Springtime" reigned in the gymnasium and "Poof" the dragon was on hand to take the Class of 1968 away from the work and worry of school into a world of enchantment. The prom and our dragon will always be our special treasure. Thousands of people will remember "Poof" as he rode in Bristol's annual Fourth of July parade.

September, 1967, ushered in our Senior year, the most eventful year of our lives. Our goals were high and our enthusiasm was at a peak as the days began to slip away. Upon receiving our class rings at Bristol High's historic first Ring Dance, we viewed our last year from a different perspective, realizing that graduation was no longer an obscurity, but a near reality. Another football championship raised our spirits more. The Christmas Dance put us in a holiday mood, ready to face the last mid-year exams. "The Pajama Game" was an important and successful class effort that revealed the myriad talent of our class.

1968, our year, has been a truly outstanding one. With our reception over, each event takes on new meaning, for it is our last. In the midst of the excitement of the class banquet, class day, and graduation ceremony we are trying to preserve the memories of the past as we brace ourselves for the uncertain future.
